Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG)

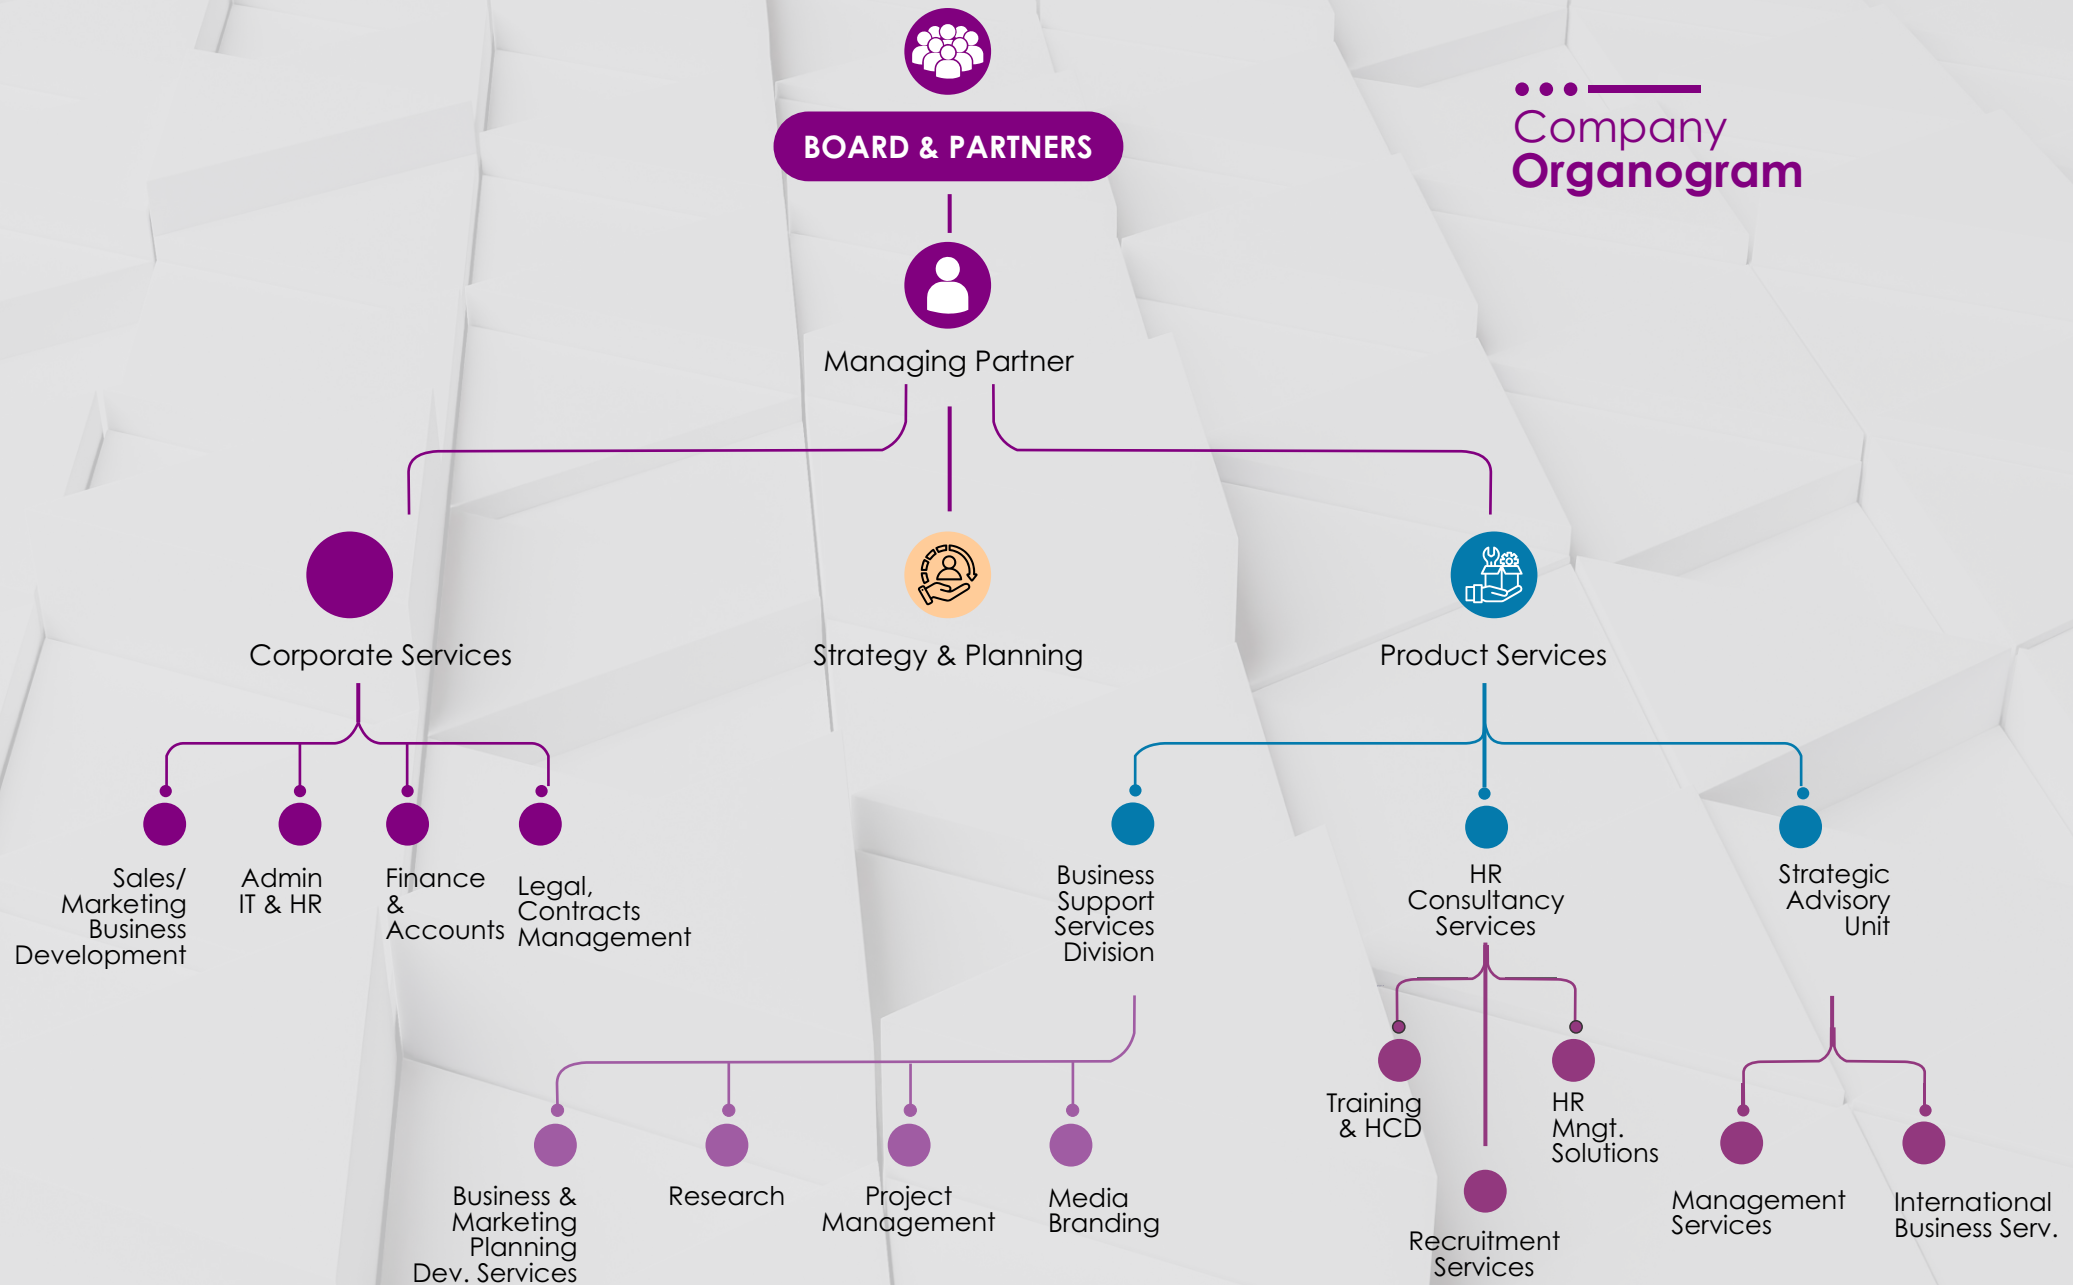

The business environment today has become increasingly competitive and volatile, and ESG factors are progressively playing a pivotal role in directing profitability, operational performance, due diligence practices, and divestments, among other things. The result? Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) considerations are under the spotlight and proving central to investment, divestment, consumer, and operational decisions. However, turning insights into action can prove complex.

At Credo Consults we understand the concerns and the challenges in incorporating ESG into already existing operation models, risk management strategies and operational strategies and we provide organisations with a one-stop solution for ESG management goals.

We allow a wide range of stakeholders to partake in responsible decision-making and help organizations enhance their sustainability performance. Some of our expertise lies around identifying what the ESG risk drives & sustainability issues generally faced and they can be embedded into risk management framework & operational strategy, how processes can be reinvented to comply with ESG policies/regulations, how to manage sustainability reporting & investing, how to develop new policies that factor in ESG concerns, how to measure & track ESG success & investments within banks and other financial institutions.
